New Video Source Included: nowvideo.sx

If you notice some video require you to "Skip the Ads" and close the pop up window TWICE, this is because we included a new video source nowvideo.sx. Those annoying ads are not ours, instead, they comes from the host website and we are not able to remove it. Even worse, those video are not available on iPhone because they are in Flash format rather than MP4 format like most other videos.

However, we decide to include them because all the newly released movies are there. Includes:

Divergent (2014)

Snowpiercer (2014)

<http://www.youtubeonfire.com/watch.php?v=qpytssIPAC4>

But the good news is: since today, You can find all the latest movies on MovieTube.

Legal Issues

Henri, and many users in US asked me whether it is legal to watch movies on our site. Since many movies we linked are pirated movies, we understand you may have this concern.

In all countries (including US & UK), watching pirated movies online is legal and will NOT be sued. But downloading them to your computer's hard drive could be a crime. In our case, all the movies are hosted on YouTube, Google Doc, and Google Picasa and you are streaming them directly rather than download them. So only people who uploaded them and websites that are hosting those them will take the responsibility. Our website linked those movies, so have partial responsibility called "Copyright Infringement" according US law. Luckily we are not a US company so we do not need to respect US laws.

You may still wondering how it is possible that you can watch so many HD movies for free. Well, that is because Google allow everyone to upload and share movies through YouTube, Google Doc, and Picasa. Since Google is doing all the hard streaming works for us for free, so you can enjoy them for free also with a few extra advertisement. Regarding advertisement, we select our ads partner carefully to make sure there is no virus or adult content. So feel free to watch movies on our site and recommend us to your friends.

The reason we made the sudden change of using <http://youtubeonsale.com> is because we lost control of our original domain <http://youtubeonfire.com> for the last 48 hours. Now our domain service provider GoDaddy has finally returned the domain to us after verification.
